About Department

The Electronics and Telecommunication Engineering Department of A. G. Patil Institute of Technology was established in the year 2008 with an intake of 60 students. It has highly qualified, dedicated, well experienced & self-motivated faculty members and who continuously up-grades their knowledge.

Being involved in various technical and professional society activities like IEEE, ISTE and IETE, gives the faculty members an edge in organizing activities throughout the year, which gives the students excellent exposure to emerging trends in the Industry. The department has strong Industry-Institute Interaction Cell, which helps in bridging the gap between academics and industry needs.

The student association named SETCOM (Students of Electronics and Telecommunication Engineering) takes utmost care in familiarizing and equipping students to be prepared for their professional life by organizing various activities such as group discussion, guest lectures, aptitude test, mock interviews, etc. It also provides ample opportunities to students to work on mini-projects, develop communication skills, explore internship opportunities in industry and take part in national and international design contests. Students graduated from this department have been well placed in reputed national and multinational companies.
